EXCHANGE TO RESCUE

Will Liquidate Assets and Make Good All Losses of Closed Institution.

Through the action of the Exchange National bank, all but two of the other banks, and several important private citizens, depositors in the American National bank, which closed its doors yesterday morning, are to receive 100 cents on the dollar. This announcement has been made by the Exchange National bank, which is to handle the affairs of the American National bank. The business and records of the American National bank are to be transferred to the Exchange as quickly as possible, and the depositors will receive payment as soon as the records can be verified. A statement issued yesterday morning by R. M. McFarlin, vice president of the Exchange National bank, said:

Notice to Depositors of the American National Bank of Tulsa. "Notice is hereby given that the Exchange National bank of Tulsa, under and in pursuance of an agreement and assumption of part of the possible loss by the First National bank, the Union National bank, the Liberty National bank, the National Bank of Commerce, Security State bank, has taken over the assets of the American National bank for the purpose of liquidating the same, and has assumed and agreed to pay all depositors the full amount due them as soon as said several accounts can be verified and determined. The depositors of the American National bank are requested to leave their bank books with the Exchange National bank at their earliest possible convenience where their accounts will be verified and full settlement will be made when so verified."

EXCHANGE NATIONAL BANK,
R. M. McFARLIN, Vice President.

The American National bank was organized about eight years ago by J. W. McNeal and associates. Mr. McNeal died about two years ago, but before his death had disposed of his interest in the institution.

About a year and a half ago the American National bank took over the Citizens State bank, and moved from Third and Main to the Daniels building at Third and Boston, where the Citizens State bank had been located.

On special occasions the concert harp will be used in orchestration. Initial appearance of the orchestra will be made at the class meeting Sunday morning.

The business men's Bible class was recently reorganized and has set out to gain an active membership of 100 by May 30. There were 38 present last Sunday.

SHORT FOR NEXT CITY TREASURER

Evan's Campaign Manager Slated for Office Lions Learn.

Official public announcement that E. E. Short, who managed the republican city campaign, is to be the next city treasurer, was made at the Lions club luncheon at Hotel Tulsa yesterday noon by Commissioner-elect C. S. Younkman, who acted as Chief Lion. The newly-elected mayor and commissioners were all present at the luncheon except Commissioner H. F. Newblock.

Mayor-elect T. D. Evans, during a brief talk, declared that the incoming administration should not be classified as a "reform" administration. "There are already too many reformers who need reforming," Mr. Evans said. "I would much rather be classed as a business administration, for the word 'business' includes everything desirable for the best interests of the city."

O. A. Steiner, J. M. Adkinson and Mr. Younkman each made short talks. "The new officials are going to co-operate with you and with themselves," Mr. Steiner said. "We have no ill feeling toward members of the present administration. The platform on which we ran, and the tactics we used, were such that we can look every member of the administration squarely in the eyes."

"I associated myself with these men because I thought they were clean and honest," Mr. Short said when he was introduced and subsequently called upon for a speech. "They promised to do the things that needed to be done; they promised by not only giving their word but by attaching their signatures. I know they are going to keep their promises."

F. E. Duncan, newly appointed city attorney, was also introduced, but declined to deliver an address.
